I Am the Dutch Kiddy and This Is My Daddy's Special Message To You

DAD says there are no bulbs like Holland grown bulbs. You see, it's like this: A lot of those Hollanders, and their grandads before them, have all their lives been growing the fattest, solidest bulbs they knew how. Just naturally, they know how best of all. Their soil and climate help a lot, too.

So, several years ago, Dad arranged with some of the very best Holland growers to supply him with bulbs from the cream of their crops. And these are the bulbs he wants you to have in your garden.

But he doesn't bring over just a few different kinds and have only those to sell you. No, sir. Instead, he tells you in this catalog of all the kinds that are worth while; and then asks you to pick out the ones you want, and let him know not a day later than July 1st.

Then he orders your bulbs straight from Holland, along with extras for my garden, and a lot of other people besides, who long ago found out what fine bulbs Dad sells.

I am hoping the postman will bring your order very soon. Don't put off till too late, for then there's nothing to do but feel sorry.

And Now a Word About My Bulbs and Several Other Things You Surely Want to Know All About

EVERY word my Dutch Kiddy has just said is exactly so. But kid-like, he left several things out.

He didn't say a word about the comparative cost of my bulbs with others. So let me suggest that as long as you are going to buy bulbs, the difference in price between my special cream-of-the-crop kind, and the ordinary ones, is so little, and the returns so much more satisfactory, that whatever is the use of spending your money for anything but the Dutch Kiddy kinds?

Every single one of my bulbs is robust, full sized, filled with bloom promise. Their flowers are among Spring's most joyous possessions.

From the twinkling of the first saucy crocus bloom, to the gorgeous sun-kissed tulips, they give you weeks of the keenest joy. For a comparatively small expenditure you can have such bloom abundance and continue to have it for years to come.

Order enough to plant outside and some over for growing in pots for home blooms from Christmas to Easter. Your order must reach me by July 1st. Bear this in mind.

First Let's Talk of Tulips

TULIPS are Heaven-sent ground rainbows. They bring a message filled with color and promise.

Their silken sheened petals are indeed lovely chalices, fit for the most exacting fairy.

In color range and petal formation, their gamut is astounding. In vigor of growth and bloom reward, where is their like?

Yes, surely you must have tulips—if only for growing for inside winter bloom.

Early Singles

IN a riot of color, these early varieties usher in May Day. I have listed only the more beautiful sorts—the kinds that are a joy when either alone or massed in beds. They are the best for home forcing, and their blooms will cheer the wintry months. For bedding uses, plant 5 inches apart and 4 deep. The numeral following the name indicates the relative time of blooming, and will aid you in selecting varieties that will come in bloom at the same time.

May Flowering Or Cottage

AMONG these are some of the most strikingly beautiful of all tulips. Their colors ranging through a great variety of rich reds, soft pinks, beautiful yellows and whites, delightfully pleasing varieties of colors and shades. They are perfectly hardy, which makes them very desirable for permanent borders or for naturalizing in grass. They are superb for bedding, and very effective as cut flowers, having long, strong stems, with beautiful blooms of great substance, lasting well in excellent condition.

CULTURE. These tulips should be planted at intervals of five or six inches, at a depth of from four to five inches. They bloom freely if left undisturbed for two or three years, and often for a much longer period if the soil and location are suitable.

The numeral following the name indicates the relative time of blooming.

THESE gigantic May flowering tulips have won for themselves a host of enthusiastic admirers. Their blooms are large, globular, of fine texture, and borne on long, strong stems, making them unsurpassed for cutting as well as for garden decoration in borders, hedges and beds. Their range of colors and shades is remarkable, including the soft, the bright and the somber hues in every conceivable tint of rose, lilac, maroon, scarlet, crimson and other rich and rare shades, yellow only being excepted.

The casual grower soon becomes as enthusiastic over Darwins as the fancier, which accounts for their rapidly increasing popularity wherever they have been grown. This list is probably the most complete ever offered, containing all the finest, newest and most beautiful varieties.

CULTURE. Plant from September 15th to November 15th in rich loamy soil about six inches apart at a depth of five or six inches. A half inch of sand under each bulb to promote drainage is very beneficial.

Narcissi or Daffodils

THERE are no spring flowering plants that enjoy more popularity than Narcissi. They are perfectly hardy, grow well in any location and invariably give satisfaction. The earliest varieties come into bloom in April and the intermediate and later varieties continue to bloom until well into May. They range from the large trumpets to the dainty small crowned sorts. While they grow best in the open they may be cultivated indoors with fine success.

My offerings include the best of every type, and the most exacting fancier will find no difficulty in choosing from this list, as all the newest and best varieties are represented.

CULTURE. Narcissi thrive best in a partial shady location, and for that reason are especially adapted for planting in borders with other plants. They should be planted in light, rich, well drained soil at a depth of five or six inches, and spaced three or four inches apart, for the smaller sorts, and at a greater distance for the larger bulbs. They yield very readily to forcing.

The figure following the name indicates the relative time of flowering.

HYACINTHS

Hyacinths

THE delightful fragrance and waxlike fragility of the clustering Hyacinth blooms, give it a choiceness that stirs the poetry within us. Surely no garden or planting can be quite complete without them. When broad stretches of soft, spring colors are desired, they are admirable. Plant six inches apart—five to six inches deep. For house forcing, they are ideal. Plant in pots as soon as received, put in dark cool place until roots shows through drainage hole. Then bring to light. When your Dutch Kiddy bulbs come, note their extra size and weight.

ARENTINE ARENDSON. Pure snow-white, well filled spike of widely opened bells. Very fine. 10 bulbs, $1.00; 100 bulbs, $8.00.

BUFF BEAUTY. Pale orange-yellow, softly striped yellow and flushed rosy flesh on reverse of bells. Long narrow trusses, with good stems. 10 bulbs, $1.00; 100 bulbs, $8.00.

CAPTAIN BOYTON. Soft pale blue, shaded darker blue; beautiful full spike, with large spreading bells. Excellent bedder. 10 bulbs, $1.00; 100 bulbs, $8.00.

CITY OF HAARLEM. Fine rich yellow, shaded darker yellow; large full truss on strong stem. A grand variety. 10 bulbs, $2.00; 100 bulbs, $18.00.

CORREGGIO. Beautiful pure white; large trusses well filled with fine perfectly formed bells. The finest of all the whites. Ideal for potting. 10 bulbs, $2.00; 100 bulbs, $18.00.

COUNT ANDRASSY. Porcelain blue, shaded marine blue; bells large; full spike. Brightly colored and fine for potting or bedding. 10 bulbs, $1.20; 100 bulbs, $10.00.

CZAR PETER. Light porcelain-blue; large perfectly formed spike, well filled with large waxy bells. A great favorite. 10 bulbs, $1.00; 100 bulbs, $8.00.

ELECTRA. Soft light blue. Very large well filled spike, with finely formed bells. A light blue that is in great demand because of its great beauty. 10 bulbs, $1.60; 100 bulbs, $15.00.

ENCHANTRESS. Fine porcelain blue, blending to brighter blue; very long, full spike, and large bells. Of great value both for bedding and potting. 10 bulbs, $1.50; 100 bulbs, $14.00.

ETNA. Bright rich carmine, shaded with white; trusses large and full, bells large. Ideal for potting. 10 bulbs, $1.25; 100 bulbs, $10.00.

GARIBALDI. Brilliant carmine, with fine large spikes. Splendid for potting. 10 bulbs, $1.00; 100 bulbs, $8.00.

Crocus

THESE sturdy little chaps nose their way into the early Spring sunshine, even before the return of the robins. Sprinkled in the grass, they are delightful. Planted in clusters in the garden, they are indeed cheery. The four special offerings below contain all the best named varieties. If you were my best friend, these are the collections I should promptly suggest. Can I say more for them?

MIXTURE OF BLUE VARIETIES:

ALL BLUE—100 bulbs, $1.00; 1,000 bulbs, $7.00.

A BEAUTIFUL MIXTURE OF STRIPED VARIETIES—100 bulbs, $1.00; 1,000 bulbs, $7.00.

A MIXTURE OF ALL COLORS—100 bulbs, $1.00; 1,000 bulbs, $7.00.

Iris

WHAT is more lovely than the stately purple iris, enshrouded amidst its vigorous foliage; what more like drifts of sunshine than a walk bordered with the golden yellow varieties?

With blooms aftermath, you have the continued beauty of their graceful, rush-like foliage. They multiply rapidly.

Instead of listing the many varieties by name, I offer you special collections containing all the best specimens of named varieties. This method insures you far greater value than if I were to sell you individual varieties.

We will, however, on request, give special quotations on standard named varieties. At our Arcola Gardens, we have every classification of Iris represented.

German

Large Bearded Flag

THIS family of IRIS is the best known, and is one of the most satisfactory herbaceous Spring plants.

The flowers are large and of beautiful colors. They are perfectly hardy and do well in almost any garden, increasing in effectiveness each year. Many new varieties are constantly being added, and as all IRIS lovers prefer to use them for borders or massing, I have arranged to deliver a charming collection which contains the most attractive of the NEGLECTA, PAL-LIDA, PLICATA, VARIEGATA types and independent varieties, in preference to listing the individual varieties, as named below:

A splendid Mixture, 25 named Varieties, $5 per hundred.

Japanese

THE magnificence of IRIS KAEMPFERI or JAPANESE IRIS beggars description. The flowers are of large size and of indescribable beauty. They are without doubt the most popular IRIS today. No description can do them justice, and many of the newer varieties have as yet not been named. Rather than quote prices on a few varieties to the exclusion of many others of equally striking beauty at an unnecessary increase in cost, I am offering the following collections in which the colors and shades are beautifully blended, at prices which bring these glorious flowers within the financial reach of all:

- A—10 best distinct Double named sorts....$6.00 per 100
 B—Fine mixture of Single varieties..... 4.00 per 100
 C—Splendid mixture of large flowering varieties 5.00 per 100
 D—A Collection of beautiful SEED-
 LINGS of the most exquisite JAP-
 ANESE varieties 6.00 per 100

English

THIS class of IRIS is comparatively new and has sprung into popular favor during recent years.

It is somewhat like the well known SPANISH IRIS, but has heavier foliage and large flowers. It comes into bloom about two weeks later than the SPANISH varieties. Owing to the newness of this specie, its nomenclature still unsettled, it would be practically impossible to offer any of its beautiful specimens by name. The only one of this family whose name is yet universally known is MONT BLANC. There are, however, many beautiful specimens ranging through various shades of red, rose, violet and blues which are of striking beauty and a decided addition to any garden. They are all perfectly hardy and do especially well in light soil. I can particularly recommend the following mixtures either for border or bedding purposes, as they contain all the many color combinations and are of the best quality:

A Splendid Mixture of all colors, or light shades only, as you wish, $1.75 per 100; $12.00 per 1000.

A Splendid Collection of Distinct Varieties, $2.50 per 100; $20.00 per 1000.

A new race of early giant XIPHIUMS, flowering two weeks in advance of SPANISH IRIS. This race of IRIS is best described as a giant race of very early flowering SPANISH IRIS, but in all respects greatly superior to these, as the flowers are of enormous size and remarkable substance; the foliage is very broad and of a beautiful green. The range of colors is varied. Some of the varieties have soft, delicate shades of blue and white, while the deep blues are very showy, being of exceedingly rich tone, relieved by a large, massive, golden-orange yellow central spot. They flower at least two weeks before the earliest SPANISH varieties and should be planted in the same kind of soil. They are best planted at the end of September, and in very cold districts should be well mulched as protection against frost.

100 beautiful SEEDLINGS, $3.00.

A collection of 10 Named Varieties, $4.00 per 100.

I can particularly recommend either of these special offerings as being very satisfactory to any who wish to have in their garden a few of the newest and most striking flowers.

Spanish

THE SPANISH IRIS, well called the Poor Man's Orchid, blooms in early June. It is perfectly hardy and its bright colors make a gorgeous effect. It does well in light, sandy soil, and a few of these remarkably beautiful flowers should be in every garden. My offerings include many of the finest specimens of this class, and are very desirable in every way.

A—Splendid Mixtures, All Colors, 75 cents per 100; $6.00 per 1000.

B—A Splendid Named Collection of 10 Varieties of the newest and finest developments of this wonderful popular collection, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000.

Herbaceous Chinese Peonies

HERBACEOUS PEONIES: After the Rose, the peony is by far the most beautiful garden flower. It has been a favorite for many years, but many improvements have been made in recent years, and the present development of this Queen among flowers has brought it to a point where it vies even with the rose itself for supremacy in beauty of color and contour. No garden is complete without a few of the representative varieties, and they possess one great advantage over many plants in that they are a permanent investment, the plants increasing in size and number of blooms each year. My importations are all strong roots with from three to five eyes, are true to name, and in most instances bloom the first year. This list includes the old favorites and most of the newest and best productions.

CULTURE—A trench two feet deep should be filled with a mixture of one part well rotted cow manure and three parts loam well forked and mixed. The trench should be filled to within two inches of the surface and allowed to stand for a week or two, when the roots should be placed on the surface and covered with not more than two inches of rich loam. DEEPER PLANTING WILL RETARD THE GROWTH OF THE PLANT. The distance between plants should be about three feet. The best time to plant is in the late fall, when the roots are well ripened.

When the plants come in bud, all but the large central bud of each branch should be pinched off to insure perfection of bloom. After they have ceased blooming, continue to cultivate the soil thoroughly, for the healthy growth of the foliage is what provides for next season's flowers and the increased size of the plant.

The Joys of Winter Blooming Bulbs for Your Home

The beauty of having a winter garden of blooming bulbs is that it is so easy to do and costs so little to have it.

When all outside is dull and drear, you can have golden gleams of concentrated sunshine from your pots of flowering daffodils.

When snows and blows make winter seem interminable, then the tulips give you their bountiful notes of good cheer.

When fickle Spring flirts with Winter to the point of exasperation, then the dainty, sweet scented hyacinth brings its soothing message.

All through the trying months of January, February, and March, you can have one continuous bloom-fest.

The bulbs cost so little and the care they need is so small, that there really seems no reason left for your not having at least one of our joy giving winter garden collections.

Winter Garden Number One

$1.00

For so little as one dollar, we will send you, parcel post prepaid, anywhere within the first and second zones; 30 special Winter forcing bulbs. If you live beyond the second zone, add 25 cents.

We will gladly include sufficient fibre for planting them in, so you need give no bother to getting soil for your pots.

Full directions for growing them will also be included. The collection consists of 30 of my very best Dutch Kiddy bulbs—every one bloom filled.

6 Paper White Narcissi.
6 Daffodils, 2 Varieties.
6 Hyacinths, 2 Varieties.
12 Tulips, 2 Varieties.

Winter Garden Number Two

$2.00

If you send us $2, we will just double the quantity of Number One Garden, and for full measure, will gladly add 24 sassy, twinkle-eyed crocuses.

But don't forget that your order, with payment enclosed, must surely be received by July 1st—the date I send all orders to my Holland growers.

How to Plant Bulbs for Winter Bloom

Many varieties of Crocus, Narcissus, Tulips and Hyacinths bloom freely indoors during the winter, if properly handled. The varieties which force most readily are indicated in this catalog.

Preparation of Soil

There are three soils suitable for the raising of bulbs indoors:

1st. Prepared Fibre, which may be secured at any seed store.

2nd. Leaf Mould, which may be secured in any woods.

3rd. Any rich garden soil, to which has been added sharp sand in proportion of one part sand to two parts of soil, and one part of rotted stable manure.

As soon as you receive your bulbs, plant them in pots or trays with the top of the bulbs even with the surface. They should now be buried in the ground in a protected location, and allowed to remain under cover until the ground begins to freeze. They should then be covered heavily with litter and allowed to remain out of doors until winter sets in in earnest. They should then be brought indoors and placed in a cold, dark cellar or closet where they can be freely watered two or three times weekly.

When the roots begin to show at the drainage hole, at the bottom of the pot, remove to the warm part of your cellar, and set the pot in a pan containing about one inch of water at all times. When the buds begin to show, bring the plants to a warm sunshiny window, and continue to supply water liberally.

I Want Your Kiddies to Have a Bulb Garden All Their Own Just Like Mine

FOR a long time I teased Dad and teased him, to let me have my own little bulb garden, where I could have some of the beautiful flowers just like he has such a lot of, out at his trial gardens at Arcola.

One day, after he had sold a lot of bulbs to a man with a tall hat, and was looking like he was happy, I asked him kind of softly like, if I couldn't have just a few bulbs to plant. I hardly expected him to hear me, but he did the very first time, and said, "Why, of course," so quick that it almost scared me.

And what do you think, he gave me a lot of hyacinths, tulips and daffodils. When I counted them, there were thirty.

Well, I guess I was tickled, and right away planted them so carefully—oh, so carefully. And ever since, for two Springs, they have all come up, and have such beautiful flowers.

One of my little playmates around the corner, said his mother would give a dollar if he could have a bulb garden like mine. So I told Dad, and he said, "All right."

And then some of the girls' mothers gave them a dollar, too. So now Dad's going to let you buy some for your Kiddy.

Just send him the dollar before Fourth of July and write on a piece of paper that you want bulbs enough to make a Dutch Kiddy Garden just like mine, and next Fall he will send them to you in the cutest little package and tell you how to plant them. They sleep all Winter under ground, where Jack Frost can't bite them. In the Spring it's great fun to see them push their little noses through the ground to see if it's warm enough to come out and play in the sunshine. My, but won't your Kiddy be glad!

All Orders Must Be Received By July 1st

YOU will recall that in my little Kiddy's chat with you, on the first page, and our talk together, on the next page, we explain that it will be necessary for you to send us orders for all your bulbs not later than July first. This is because I only fill orders for Dutch Bulbs on import. Doing it this way, insures you of getting the very highest class Bulbs that Holland's best growers produce.

Remittances should accompany all orders.

Shipping Directions

All orders will be shipped immediately upon their arrival from Europe. The growers remove the bulbs from the soil when they have matured, and forward to me at once. This prevents long storage of bulbs and possible injurious sprouting.

No charge is made for importing and shipping, but all freight and express charges are at purchaser's expense from Paterson.

Kindly indicate by what freight or express line you wish your goods shipped.

Name and Address

Please remember to write your name, post office, county, street address and State distinctly; also your nearest express office, and the name of the express company.

Guarantee

I guarantee that all bulbs will be true to name, of the finest selected Imperial Quality, and that they will reach you in good condition.

I WISH

In childhood wishing is a pleasant diversion. The wishes being freely expressed, they often come true. In later life they continue as an expression of our soul's desire, and many of them are realized

I Wish

I could tell you how little I thought of Tulips, Narcissi, etc., until I saw the IMPERIAL QUALITY kind in bloom, when my enthusiasm bounded to 100 plus.

I Wish

You could see the exquisite shades of Darwin and Rembrant Tulips with their long and graceful stems in your own garden, either standing alone or with a background of shrubbery. They would rouse your latent enthusiasm to the Nth degree.

I Wish

You could watch the unfolding of the glorious Daffodil in its rich, harmonious simplicity of cream and white and yellow. Especially when every bulb vies with its neighbor in its effort to excel in size and beauty of bloom.

I Wish

Your garden could supply room for a few sprightly Crocus, and a few Hyacinths with massive trusses, the largest you ever saw, whose perfume is an incense to their fellow elves of colorful joy.

I Wish

When these have folded themselves in their long sleep until their reappearance next spring, you could be further entranced with the compelling beauty of the queenly Peony and the stately Iris. They add much to life.

I Wish

Your enthusiasm for a winter garden in your home could be sufficiently aroused to give one a trial. It is so easy to make, and brings such a lot of joy and satisfaction. The varieties of Hyacinth, Daffodil and Tulip which grow well in the house are indicated in the Bulb Book. The Paper White Narcissus is a great favorite.

I Wish

I could impress upon everyone the knowledge that it is almost as easy to starve a plant as a growing boy. They both need food, and the better you feed them, the better they look.

I Wish

I could convince you that IMPERIAL QUALITY is not merely a phrase for advertising purposes, but that it means just what it implies, that they are actually the best that money can buy at any price.

I Wish

I could impress upon you the absolute necessity of having your order in by JULY 1st, as my order goes to Holland that day.

I Wish

You could see the many letters from my customers extolling the superiority of IMPERIAL QUALITY BULBS. Some are much stronger than these:

Cohasset, Mass., May 4th, 1916.

My dear Mr. Vanderbeek:

I must write and express my gratitude to you for the pleasure I am enjoying this spring.

The wealth of blossoms from the bulbs I put in last autumn is simply marvelous. I believe every bulb has done its utmost, and the blooms are enormous. It makes the little ones I see elsewhere pitiful.

Respectfully and cordially yours,

A. J. LINNELL.

76 Florida St., Buffalo, N. Y., May 10, 1916.

My dear Mr. Vanderbeek:

I wish you could be here to see in bloom the Hyacinths I purchased of you last year. They surpass my wishes in that they have produced in open ground blooms equal and in many cases way ahead of blooms obtained from forcing varieties. My Hyacinth bed has been a wonder sight for the past week in the section of the city where I live.

Yours truly,

JOHN T. CROWLEY.

I Wish

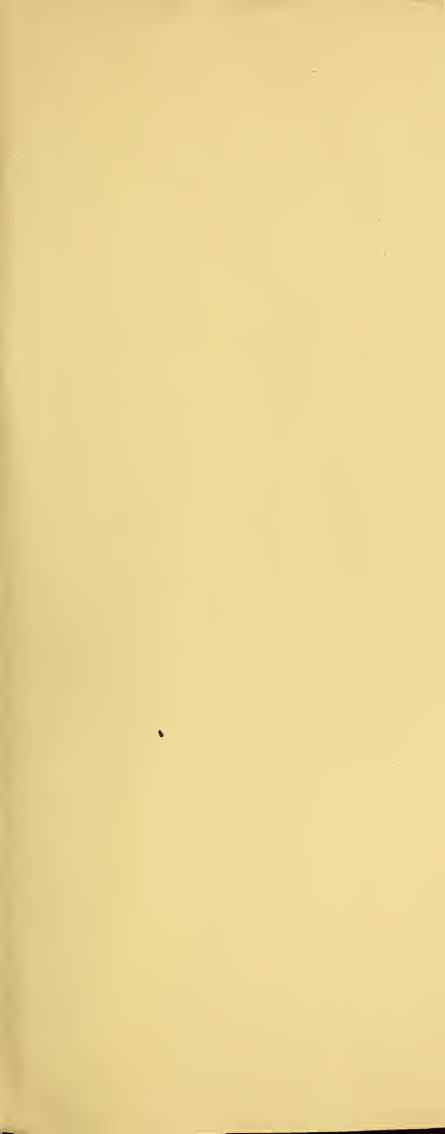

I could impress upon you the importance of planting your garden with IMPERIAL QUALITY BULBS. It is an insurance of success and joy.

I Wish

We could all keep on wishing along floral lines—it would help to keep us young.
